

Deanna Day Young
PO Box 403
Batesville, IN 47006
812-498-2281

Deanna@DeannaDayYoung.com

Website:
www.DeannaDayYoung.com

Deanna's mission statement for her life is "to make a difference to someone every day." She has a passion for random acts of kindness. She also loves to help others become the person God created them to be by helping individualize their personal goals.

Another one of her passions is to help others make a difference with their hands, their hearts and their homes through practical decluttering, organizing and decorating ideas.

She loves sharing Christ through scripture, life experiences and humorous stories. Deanna has been a Christian since she was 10 years old. She has been speaking to women's groups for 19 years and has a treasure box of topics.

She is the author of Extra Hot Fudge Please, a collection of daily devotions. She is also President of Bucket Buddies Mission, Inc., a non-profit created in honor of her sister who passed away in 2014 after 9 years of struggling with ovarian cancer. Bucket Buddies Mission provides buckets of goodies to children suffering from cancer and other life-threatening illnesses.

Deanna lives in southeast Indiana where she and her husband of 31 years live on the Young family farm. They have two grown daughters. Deanna is a corporate trademark paralegal with a degree in Journalism and Speech Communications from Ball State University and a Paralegal Certification from Saint Mary of the Woods. She loves sports, especially NFL football and college men's and women's basketball. She enjoys riding her bicycle, playing the piano, reading, writing, traveling and watching Christmas movies!